Automated using Integrated Library Management System (ILMS) KOHA:

KOHA is a world's best open-source integrated management system. Koha is a web-based, customizable, and fully featured integrated library management system used worldwide by the public, college, and university libraries. The user interface (OPAC/WebOPAC) of Koha offers a responsive mobile-friendly design.

It is the best open-source library management software. It was first developed in New Zealand and is now used in more than 15,000 libraries around the world.

It has all the modules required for running comprehensive library software. It includes modules for:

Administration

Acquisitions

Cataloguing

Circulation

Serials Control

Reports

Patron Management

Advanced Search and many more.

Institute has successfully done all the work like (Cataloguing, Circulation, Reports, Patrons Registration etc.) in our library since 2016 with the help of KOHA software.

Opac (Online Public Access Catalogue) Manual:

An OPAC is an online bibliography of a library catalogue collection that is available to the public. OPAC's developed as stand-alone online catalogues, often from VT100 terminals to a mainframe library catalogue. With the arrival of the internet, libraries have made their OPAC accessible from a server to users all over the college campus.

The catalogue is used to search items available in the library.

OPAC:

DELNET (Developing Library Network):

The Delhi Library Network has been in operation since January 1988 and was registered, as a society in July 1992, sponsored by NISSAT, Department of Scientific and Industrial Research, Government of India. It is being promoted by the National Informatics Centre, Planning Commission Government of India and India International Centre, New Delhi.

The main objective of DELNET was 'to promote sharing of resources among the libraries, by collecting, storing and disseminating information and by offering computerized services to the users to coordinate efforts for suitable collection development and reducing unnecessary duplication wherever possible'. In the beginning there were only 31 institutions as institutional members and three associate institutional members all from Delhi. Later gradually its membership increased. This growth of membership out of Delhi necessitated the making of an amendment in its name. Thus on September 13, 2000 the name was changed from Delhi Library Network to the Developing Libraries Network. This change expanded the scope from a metropolitan network without any limitation of borders, serving the users any where in the world.

Now the membership of DELNET is growing at a fast rate. In 1997-2000 the total number of member libraries were 153 but it reached 276 on 1st November 2001. From almost all the states of India and from other SAARC countries such as Oman, Philippines and United States, covering general, science and technology, social sciences and humanities libraries, which include all types of libraries such as academic, research/special, public, government, diplomatic mission, UN agencies and other miscellaneous libraries.

I hope that the students and faculty of your institution will get benefited by using the DELNET databases and services. I would also like to inform you that DELNET shall be glad to organise a one hour webinar on DELNET Networked Resources and Services at a mutually convenient date and time for the students, faculty and researchers of "St. John College of Humanities & Sciences, Palghar (East), Maharashtra". It will help in the effective utilisation of DELNET resources and services.

Do kindly let us know if you require any further assistance.

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

Sangeeta Kaul
